

Where marble, stone and wifi meet

Most of us take being connected to wifi for granted – at home we simply plug in and go. But when it comes to an office building it's not always so simple.