

WHO declares mpox outbreak a public health emergency of international concern

The UK Health Security Agency responds to the World Health Organisation declaring an mpox outbreak a public health emergency of international concern.