

Will Santa get home safe? New World Magnetic Model reveals movements in the Earth's magnetic field

If you've ever wondered how Santa visits millions of homes across the globe in just one night, it's because he has a little help from science. And the good news is, he won't get lost on his travels this year – provided that he follows his compass home.