

World-leading 3D printer used by British Army in the field for first time

A cutting-edge 3D printer is being used by the British Army for the first time in the field on the largest NATO deployment in Europe in a generation.