

Xi stresses social governance

Chinese President Xi Jinping Tuesday stressed in Beijing that strengthening and innovating social governance would better solve various social problems.

He told representatives from the comprehensive management of public securities sector across the country to make social governance more systematic, scientific, intelligent, and in accordance with rule of law.