

Young designers fashion the future

Non-profit organisation Fashion Farm Foundation has invited Hong Kong and Mainland institutions to take part in a series of fashion events to help young designers discover more about the Greater Bay Area's fashion trends and market.

News.gov.hk spoke to the organisation's Chairlady and two fashion design students to discover how the activities also help showcase the region's creativity.

The story appears on news.gov.hk today (August 4) in text and video format.